Simon Edwards

Simon Edwards is a Christian leader, ex-prisoner, and former addict who transformed his life through faith and now leads Walk Ministries, a charity that supports men coming out of prison and addiction through detox, recovery housing, and purpose-driven work placements. As a visionary CEO, property developer, and social entrepreneur, Simon owns and develops properties used for supported housing, children's homes, and education—including a transitional programme for 16-18s and an independent primary school built from a disused police station—creating safe, stable environments that restore dignity, purpose, and hope. He worked tirelessly during COVID to support getting everyone off the streets and into accommodation.
